“Sula District Ranger Hollingshead heading to Kemmerer Ranger District in Wyoming”

Hamilton, Montana, May 9, 2007— Earlier this week, Sula District Ranger Tracy Hollingshead accepted a position as District Ranger on the Kemmerer Ranger District which is located on the Bridger-Teton National Forest in western Wyoming.

Hollingshead, a wildlife biologist who moved to the Bitterroot NF in October 2003, commented on the mix of emotions she feels about her new assignment. “I have enjoyed my time on the Bitterroot. It’s a beautiful place and I am grateful for the chance to work with the generous people in the Sula Community and the dedicated staff on the District and Forest. I am also excited about my move to Kemmerer for both professional and personal reasons. Kemmerer is a great District on an exciting Forest. I look forward to expanding my experience in diverse ecosystems of the intermountain West, and to living with my husband who works in western Wyoming.”

Hollingshead reports to Kemmerer on June 25th. Amber Lewis, the Bitterroot National Forest’s Engineer, is serving as the acting District Ranger at Sula through July.
